

BRIAN CAMPION

STORY: Brian Champion (1948 - 2003) was a Yukoner, born and bred. After earning his law degree from Dalhousie University, Brian returned to Whitehorse in 1978 to practice law. Since that time, Brian lived, worked and raised his family in the Yukon.

Brian had a mind like a steel trap, and, armed with the qualities of common sense, honesty and a formidable ability to think, Brian established a respected legal reputation, particularly for his work in the area of mining.

In his leisure time, Brian loved exploring Yukon in his plane, snowmobiling in the mountains, and boating on Yukon's rivers and lakes.

Brian also volunteered his legal services to the Yukon Foundation since the Foundation's inception, and later sat on the Board as a Director.
