

ROD TAIT

STORY: James “Roderick” Myles Tait (1928 - 2007) was a farmer in Haines Junction known for his fields of hay, oats, potatoes, and vegetables. Rod and his wife Enid first arrived in Haines Junction in 1964 when Rod took a job as foreman for the Experimental Farm at Mile 1016.

When the experimental farm closed down in 1976, the Tait’s stayed in the Yukon. Rod was recognized in 2000 as “Farmer of the Year” by the Yukon Agricultural Association. Rod’s patience and work ethic were inspiring.
