

TED FESER

STORY: Theodore (Ted) Feser (1933 - 2005) was a diamond driller by trade, but he operated all kinds of drills working from Winnipeg to Prince Rupert to Tuktoyuktuk. He worked a great deal on the upgrading of the Alaska Highway, and lived in several communities in Alberta, British Columbia, and the Yukon.

Ted was an avid volunteer who gave his time to the community in Whitehorse from 1983 until his death. He made his community and world a better place to live. Special Olympics was one of his special charities.

The Ted Feser Fund was initiated by the Gray Mountain Lions Club and the Elks Club.
